THEN and NOW!

By Frances H. Paulette

Walker Webb, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Webb are shown on the lawn of their home at the farm - - - 303 acres of the original land granted to Merry Webb by the King of England.

Part 2 - This Land Is Our Land--Since 1730

Paying taxes, oh, what a chore - -
You empty your pockets and they ask for more!
Seems impossible to get ahead,
Just keep on paying till you lay down dead!

Had you been living in the days of THEN,
You'd have still been hit by taxes, my friend!
For sin and sinners, for slaves and such - - -
You forked it over, but it wasn't that much.

In 1845, so the old records say,
A certain John Webb had taxes to pay;
Come along with me, let's have a look - - -
And see what's recorded in that old, old, book.

The record of John Webb in the years of 1845 is as follows:

Taxes on 666 acres of land	$1.82
Taxes on 8 slaves and 3 horses	$2.86
Taxes on 6 tithes	$6.00
Tickets	.26
	$10.94

You landowners in the days of NOW—how would you like to get that tax ticket in the mail? The taxes today on approximately 600 acres of land of comparable value would be in excess of $500.00. An astonishing difference ! ! wonder just how long a man had to work in those days to get $10.94?

This 666 acre tract of land, that was taxed all of $1.82 was part of the land granted to Merry Webb in 1730 by King George II of England. Today 303 acres of the original tract of several thousand acres is still owned by members of the Webb family.

The air blowing through the kitchen window was warm and inviting. As Betty Morris Webb looked out across the hillsides, lush with the green of summer, she was happy and it showed on her face. She was thinking how glad that as a teacher in the Appomattox County School System, she had met and married Richard Meade Webb. Life was good on the farm and she loved it.

Standing in her comfortable kitchen, she began to wonder just how many other Webb women in the past 247 years had looked across the same fields, proud that "this land is our land" - - - Webb land. Her mind drifted back to the fall of 1976. - - -

Autumn had splashed her brush of color across the hillsides, leaving the leaves painted with hues of red and gold, when the news came. Betty, her husband Richard, and his brother Walker had been accorded a very great honor.

The Virginia Farm Bureau Federation had held competition to determine those farms in each county in Virginia on which members of the same family had lived and held ownership for the greatest number of years. The Webbs, with ownership dating back to 1730 won for the county of Appomattox. On December 2, 1976, Betty, Richard and Walker went to Roanoke, Virginia, where at the Hotel Roanoke, along with dinner and appropriate ceremony, the presentation was made. It was both an enjoyable and unforgetable time - - - meeting with other families who were living on land that had been in their family for more than 200 years. I'm sure a tremendous feeling of pride welled up in the hearts of the Webbs as they read on the Bicentennial Farm Certificate presented by the Virginia Farm Bureau Federation, the following words, "Recognition is extended to those who possessed the forethought and economic ability to preserve the family ownership of the farm for 200 years or more." I hope this beautiful farm will remain in the Webb family for many generations to come.

Over the years there has, out of necessity, been a lot of hard work done to maintain the farm in the manner in which the Webb farm has been kept, but there have been incidents that are most amusing and colorful. Next week we'll learn just how fun - loving "The Webbs" were in the days of THEN. I know you will want to hear about that. May I expect you to join me? I hope so!
